The Association for Teachers of English in Korea provides the following services to the general public, members and non-members alike:

- Monitoring of proposed legislation and regulations which may affect non-citizen English teachers in Korea.
- Translation of proposed and existing legislation and regulations (domestic and international) and analysis of their possible effects on non-citizen English teachers in Korea.
- Advocacy for English teacher concerns at the national and local levels.
- The English Teacher's Guide to Korea, which will be made available in PDF for free download from our website (<http://atek.or.kr>).

ATEK provides the following benefits and services to members:

- Full access to ATEK's Employer Rating System, to make and review ratings.
- Access to the member forums.
- Access to professional development and lesson planning materials.
- Information on how to check to see if your employer is correctly reporting your income, paying your taxes and making proper deductions from your pay.
- Copies of labor, tax, pension, and health insurance complaint forms, translated into Korean, and instructions about how to go about filing a complaint.
- Local social networks (the Provincial and Metropolitan Associations that send reps to our national council).
- Access to data from the ATEK Member Survey, which enables ATEK to track average salaries and weekly hours by region and type of teaching job, average level of satisfaction with various job types, average length of stay of foreigners working in Korea, average pay and benefit increases when re-signing for a second year, and much more. Want to know if your contract offer is above or below the average salary for someone in your city and education level? Get access.
- Advisories to the government based on ATEK Member Survey information on non-citizen English teacher's problems and needs (does one particular city have a higher rate of teachers reporting pay withholding fraud? That city's government might want to know that.)
- An online application that translates letters home to parents into Korean, so that you can communicate with parents and let them know how their child is doing.
- Representation of member concerns to relevant government agencies and other groups.
- Responses to media items of interest to non-citizen English teachers.

All these resources are available on our website at

NUMBERS, COUNTING, AND DATES

Korean has two sets of cardinal numbers, depending on the situation. One set has a Chinese root, and the other set has a Korean root. Use the Korean forms for the number of items (1-99) and age (2 children, 5 bottles of beer, 27 years old). Use the Chinese forms for dates, money, addresses, phone numbers, and numbers above 100.

Most Asian counting systems have a single word for “ten thousand,” and this changes the way they group large numbers. In English, 100,000 is represented as “a hundred thousands” or “a thousand one hundred times.” However, in Korean that number is represented as “십만” with 십 meaning “10” and 만 meaning “10,000.” This can be confusing for those converting numbers between English and Korean.
